

Milam at 37 percent, and McCann and Donohue at 24 and 23 percent, respectively. McCann said the fact that this poll had a larger sample may make it more valid.

"There were more people in this poll," McCann said. "New Jersey generally breaks late with paying attention to the election, with work and summer businesses (involved). Now, they're starting to focus."

Zogby and Stockton also polled likely voters in the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 9th districts.

Results showed comfortable leads for Democratic incumbents in the 3rd District, which spans western Cumberland, all of Salem and southern Gloucester counties, and Republican incumbents in the 2nd District, which spans most of Atlantic County. Republicans led in the 9th District, which includes parts of Atlantic, Ocean and Burlington counties, while Democrats lead in the 4th District, which includes parts of Gloucester and Camden counties.

1st District: McCann (R) 49%, Donohue (R) 43.5%, Albano (D) 44.1%, Milam (D) 30.1%, Not Sure 10%, Someone Else 2.8%.

2nd District: Amodeo (R) 43.6%, Polistina (R) 40.7%, Floyd (D) 29.9%, Martinez (D) 28.2%, Not Sure 19.7%, Someone Else 6%.

3rd District: Burzichelli (D) 47.1%, Riley (D) 39.2%, Villare (R) 25.7%, Lucas (R) 24.4%, Not Sure 24%, Someone Else 3.8%.

4th District: Moriarity (D) 47.3%, Collins (D) 41%, DiCicco (R) 29.4%, Lawrence (R) 28.3%. Not Sure 21.5%, Someone Else 3.8%.

9th District: Rumpf (R) 45.3%, Gove (R) 43%, Visotcky (D) 23.7%, Rue (D) 22.3%, Not Sure 29.6%, Someone Else 2.7%

Contact Daniel Walsh:

856-649-2074

DWalsh@pressofac.com

© 1970-2009 Press of Atlantic City Media Group