

Stockton Center for Economic & Financial Literacy Offers Public Opportunity to Watch National Summit on Financial Literacy April 20

For Immediate Release

Friday, April 15, 2016

Contact: Maryjane Briant
News and Media Relations Director
Galloway Township, NJ 08205
Maryjane.Briant@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4593
www.stockton.edu/media

Galloway, N.J. - Stockton University's Center for Economic & Financial Literacy will be live-streaming "The Future of Innovation in Financial Literacy" for members of the public and the Stockton community on Wednesday, April 20 from 10 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. in the Campus Center Board of Trustees Room.

"Financial literacy is an aspect of the focus on personal responsibility.

Canada's Minister of Finance, William Francis Morneau, who will

the importance of financial literacy to Canadians and the action the Canadian government is taking to help its citizens thrive.

Panels also include discussions of:

- Innovation in technology which is changing personal habits;
- The Federal Reserve Bank's financial education public awareness campaign and its Money Smart Week program, a highly successful national program. Each year, Money Smart Week hosts a competition and honors a student for their personal finance essay. The 2016 winner will be announced during the program; -more -

-continued from page 1 -

- The future of financial education.

Attendees to Stockton's event can Tweet a question to @PracticalMoney and include the hashtag #FinLitSummit for the opportunity to have it answered during the live event.

For a complete schedule of the summit and list of panelists, visit: <http://www.finlitsummit.org/>
(Times listed are for Central Daylight Time, so the events will be seen an hour later at Stockton.)

The SCFL coordinates and participates in activities, workshops, conferences, and professional development opportunities that promote economic and financial literacy and capabilities.

#