The Boilermaker Jazz Band has performed at major venues throughout the world — including Lincoln Center and the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City, the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival, Chicago Summer Dance, the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C., the Edinburgh International Festival in Scotland, and the Jeju Island Swing Festival in South Korea.

Everywhere they go, they deliver the good feelings that real jumpin' jazz can create. Cosentino and the Boilermakers have recorded eight critically acclaimed CDs and have received rave reviews for their excellent live performances. The Boilermakers have been featured on radio shows across the country and overseas, including a National Public Radio Jazz Series that was broadcast on over 50 stations. The Boilermaker Jazz Band's music was recently featured on Fox TV's hit show, "So You Think You Can Dance," with a fantastic Lindy Hop routine.

For patrons with special needs, the Stockton Performing Arts Center offers wheelchair-accessible seating, large-type programs, and listening-assistive devices. Please identify any needs you may have when making a reservation.

The Stockton Performing Arts Center, the Jersey Shore's Center for the Arts, is located on the campus of Stockton University, on Jimmie Leeds Road in Pomona (Galloway Township). Just 12 miles west of Atlantic City, the Center is easily accessible from the Garden State Parkway and the Atlantic City Expressway.

This program is made possible in part by funds from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, a partner agency of the National Endowment for the Arts and by funds from the National Endowment for the Arts.
