Galloway, NJ –The Stockton Center on Successful Aging and the Stockton School of Arts & Humanities is sponsoring a free, basic dance movement workshop for older adults on Tuesday, Oct. 6 from 2:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m. in the Dance Studio (room M205) on the Galloway campus.

Beginners are welcome to take a basic dance movement class with Gallim Dance. The New York-based contemporary dance company creates and performs worldwide original work by artistic director and founder Andrea Miller. Founded in 2007, Gallim quickly captured the attention of fellow artists, presenters, and audiences with its award-winning work, ensemble of dancers, and a fearless physicality grounded by deep humanity and expressed through the madness and joy of the imagination.

This public class, which will be held in the studio on the second floor of the M-Wing near the Performing Arts Center, is part of the dance company's residency at Stockton University for two weeks this fall. The residency culminates in a performance by the company in Stockton's Performing Arts Center on Friday, Oct. 9. Participants in the workshop will receive a coupon for two discounted tickets to the performance.

Wear comfortable clothes and be prepared to dance or simply come to learn basic dance movement in the Gallim style. Register online or call 609-626-3591 to register. Visit the SCOSA website at www.stockton.edu/scosa for more information, updates and cancellation procedures.
