Introduction/Background:

This projects seeks to develop a new international relationship through research, guest lectures and studentopportunities.It will involve interdisciplinary work, multidisciplinary global partnerships, and ultimately reinforces all of Stockton's 2020 Goals in the following order: global, sustainability, engagement, and learning. sustainability data from N. & Santiago region of Chile) with colleague from partner University (UTSM Chile

Studies, Spanish Program and more. Students can take basic online courses to Learn Spanish before the course including DuoLingo or the Spanish program can advertise to students.

Outcomes and Assessments:

(Briefly identify outcomes, including campus-wide impact; indicate how you will measure success of your efforts; what metrics will be used, etc.).

- 1) First, conference presentation at an international conference with subsequent publication of research in peer review journal (Ideally Journal of Wine Economics or Society & Natural Resources). Also, it allows the opportunity to network and collaborate with other foreign scholars, apply for grants with the wine industry, and develop other MOUs with other universities around the world. Success will be measured by presentation of research and publication of research paper.
- 2) Allowing students, faculty and community to learn about interdisciplinary research from scholar from South America and further globalize our campus. Success will be measured by number of students/faculty/staff attending the lectures and the publication of the visit in local papers, Stockton Times and maybe Presidents report. Ideally this will begin the exchange of lecturers between Stockton and UTSM more regularly.
- 3) Develop another short-term international opportunity for students to study abroad. The course will be interdisciplinary, and collaborative between Stockton and UTSM. Many students don't have the money or time to study abroad for a semester or more. This short term opportunity can bolster Stockton's numbers of study abroad and globalize education for our generally regional students. Success measured by successful development of a fully study abroad course.
