

STOCKTON UNIVERSITY

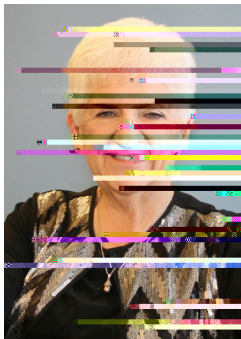

Stockton

Times

OUR COMMUNITY NEWS

APRIL 28, 2016 VOLUME 5 ISSUE NO. 27

IN THIS ISSUE

Ebony Guerrier Participates as Wheel of Fortune Contestant

'Drawing Against Oblivion' Wins Best International Documentary

Continued from previous page

Hussong secretly arranged for her uncle to do a portrait of Professor Emeritus of Holocaust Studies fellow Murray Kohn's 7-year-old sister, Ida Rebecca, who was killed along with his mother and other family members in the Holocaust.

Scenes shot on campus also feature Gail Rosenthal, director of the Sara & Sam Schoffer Holocaust Resource Center.

Hussong is preparing to bring both the exhibit and the film, "Drawing Against Oblivion," to Stockton in Fall 2016.

To view photos from Bockelmann's visit to Stockton, click here.

Marion Hussong and Murray Kohn pictured together during Manfred Bockelmann's presentation of a drawing to Kohn of his sister, Ida Rebecca, who was killed in the Holocaust.

President Kesselman Receives MBCA Education Appreciation Award

Alex Marino presented President Harvey Kesselman with the MBCA Education Appreciation Award at the organization's Annual Spring Scholarship Luncheon on April 20. Photo courtesy of Nick Valinote.

President Harvey Kesselman served as the keynote speaker and received the Education Appreciation Award at the Metropolitan Business & Citizens Association (MBCA) Annual Spring Scholarship Luncheon in Atlantic City on April 20.

Alex Marino, assistant to the provost for Atlantic City instructional sites, presented Kesselman with the award. Marino served as scholarship co-chair along with Rick Santoro of the Casino Reinvestment Development Authority.

Kesselman received the award for his "leadership and dedication to education." "I am very humbled and honored to receive this award," Kesselman said. "This organization provides scholarships to students and that is music to my heart; in education, it is all about the students."

Kesselman updated over 700 community members in attendance on the growth and new developments on the University's main campus in Galloway, as well as the upcoming expansion in Atlantic City. He also shared that the May 2017 commencement ceremony will be held at Boardwalk Hall.

Maggie Quinn to Lead New University Contracting Office

A recent review of Stockton's contracting process and current best practices reveal that the University should have a centralized repository for Institutional contracts. In an effort to streamline the contracting and procurement process, updated language will be added to the current University contracts. After a reorganization of Fiscal Affairs to increase operational

