

The
ton
Times

TY NEWS

MARCH 31, 2016 VOLUME 5 ISSUE NO. 23

Six faculty members and 20 students from Stockton University recently traveled to Bogota, Colombia, to visit universities, observe clinical sites and engage in cultural activities in the region.

Victoria Schindler, associate professor of Occupational Therapy, who has led the Stockton trip for the past two years, said the experience allows students to gain a greater understanding of their future professions by visiting two different universities and observing clinical sites tailored to their disciplines. This year's students represented Stockton's Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Nursing and Communication Disorders programs.

During the trip, which took place from March 11-18, the Stockton group took campus tours, made presentations and engaged in collaborative dialogue with faculty and students from Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy and Speech Pathology at Universidad del Rosario and

IN THIS ISSUE

Women's History Month Celebrated with University-wide Events

Continued from previous page

Presenters included: Lewis Leitner, professor of Management; Elizabeth Lacey, assistant professor of Marine Science; Joel Caplan, associate professor of Criminal Justice at Rutgers University, deputy director of the Rutgers Center on Public Security, and son of Stockton Associate Professor Ron Caplan; Nazia Kazi, assistant professor of

---

Faculty, Students Participate in Social Work Advocacy Day

Space Management Committee Announces Room Change

Students, faculty and staff in the Performing Arts program will benefit from additional space as a result of a recommendation made by the Space Management Committee and approved by President Harvey Kesselman.

The School of Arts & Humanities (ARHU) requested use of room M205B, located within the dance studio in M205. Stockton Production Services is the current user of the M205B. Since the department no longer operate a TV studio in M205, it agreed to relocating the items currently stored in the space. The Performing Arts program will use the space for storage and house a refrigerator for cold packs often needed for first aid by the dancers.

“The un of this space for storage and to houn a refrigerator will be very beneficial for the Performing Arts faculty and

---

---